

Pilkinton Backs Out as Candidate For Governor

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Chancellor James H. Pilkinton of Hope, who announced last September that he would be a candidate for governor this year, said today that he has changed his mind and will not run.

Pilkinton said he feared that unless the situation changes the race issue will preclude any possibility of the type of campaign he had in mind. And he said frankly he did not know whether he could win.

The chancellor gave his reasons in a speech prepared for delivery to the Presbyterian Men of the Church at El Dorado tonight. He furnished a copy to the Associated Press without any stipulation on release time.

"Since last fall," the prepared speech said "certain things have happened in Arkansas which have stirred the emotions of our people to such an extent that now the vital matters of public interest which I had in mind as a basis of my platform are completely overshadowed by the racial issue."

"A candidate for governor of my type running on a platform such as I had in mind would, in all likelihood, be overlooked in the emotional storm which is certain to engulf this summer's campaign."

"An emotional, misleading campaign would be out of character for me and does not appeal to me at all; and, unless the mood of the people change, any candidate for governor of my temperament is likely to 'get lost' in the shuffle, and the chances are that his program and platform would not receive the consideration they deserve or would receive in more normal times."

Pilkinton announced his withdrawal in letter to Secretary of State C. G. Hall and mentioned in the letter that he would disclose his reasons in the El Dorado speech. Hall said pledges which Pilkinton filed last Sept. 28 would be returned as the judge requested.

Gov. Orval Faubus, who is considered a likely candidate for a third term nomination, is vacating in Arkansas. At the time Pilkinton announced, Faubus' only comment was that to want to be governor was a "commendable ambition."

In his prepared speech, Pilkinton said that even assuming he could win the governor's nomination, "it is doubtful if the victory would be worthwhile, either to me personally or to my state. The 1958 campaign for governor is likely to be so bitter, and so hard fought, as to destroy much of the usefulness of whoever wins."

"I trust that will not prove the case, but it is very likely to happen," Pilkinton said he had been studying what he thought might be at least a "short range solution" to the controversy over integration at Little Rock Central High School but he did not disclose what he had in mind because he said he thought there was a chance of the plan being adopted.

"It would call for some sacrifice of position on the part of all concerned," he said, "and, therefore, would not likely be considered by those whose cooperation and consent would be necessary to put it into effect, and so I refrain from mentioning it to you at this time."

Suspended Case May Go to Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The mother of Darlene Holloway, 17-year-old white girl student who was suspended from Central High School after a pushing incident involving a Negro student, plans to go to court if necessary to get her daughter reinstated.

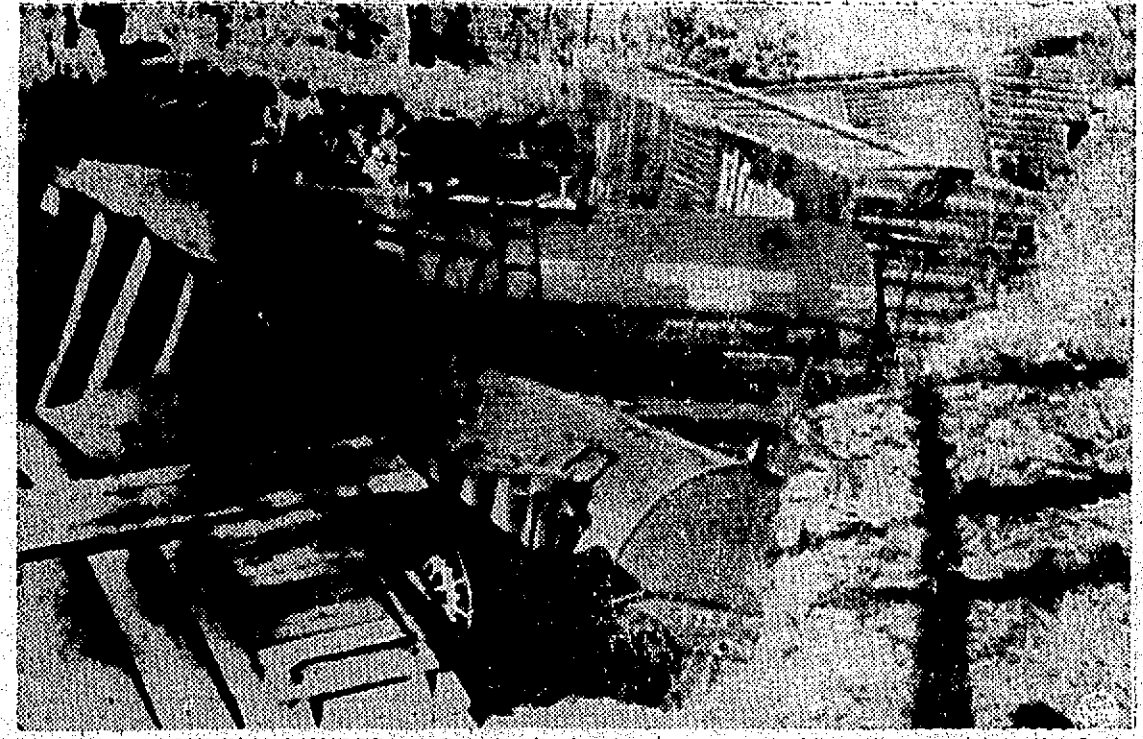

Mrs. Fred Gist said in a prepared statement yesterday that Supl. Virgil T. Blossom, who has reinstatement authority, is "ruining" Darlene's chances for an education.

"If Blossom does not reinstate Darlene," Mrs. Gist said, "she will demand a hearing with the city school board, her daughter and attorney. She said if that brings no results, she will go into a state court."

Blossom said that the girl had not been reinstated. The 3-day suspension period was up yesterday.

The superintendent also said in reference to Mrs. Gist's statement that all Central High officials who reported the pushing incident to him were in complete disagreement with Mrs. Gist about her daughter's part in it.

Mrs. Gist, a member of the segregationist League of Central High Mothers, said she had been told by the Negro student involved, The Pickett girl, was not suspended.

Suggests Arms Waste Will Go Into Billions

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Government Operations Committee today suggested billions of dollars worth of U.S. arms aid has been wasted. It called for a complete review by Congress and the executive branch.

It reported military assistance often is granted for political rather than strictly military reasons, with a resulting financial loss such as "planes without anybody to fly them, vehicles without gasoline to run them."

It listed cases as the United States being charged for rental of 112 million dollars of Chinese tools given Britain, supplying of an 84 years' supply of insect oil at a U.S. base in Germany, and construction of an air base at Torrejon, Spain, so close to a civilian field that flights are hampered.

The committee report was the vestigative group this session and first issued by a congressional committee pointed to what may be in store when President Eisenhower's request for nearly four billion dollars in new aid funds comes before Congress.

The document was written by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Fawcett (D-Fla.) which toured Europe last fall armed with findings from the General Accounting Office. The parent committee approved the report.

Contending that distribution of arms aid often is based on other than purely military factors, the committee said this means one country may receive arms funds even though it may not be able to furnish one soldier or jet pilot pilot should the free world get into trouble. The result, it said, is that the country's strength in mutual security plans is only on paper.

"It would call for some sacrifice of position on the part of all concerned," he said, "and, therefore, would not likely be considered by those whose cooperation and consent would be necessary to put it into effect, and so I refrain from mentioning it to you at this time."

20th Century Woman Cheated of One Thing

NEW YORK (AP)—The 20th century woman is supposed to have everything," said author Leonard Levinson, "but in one way she has been cheated."

"The 18th century woman had something the modern woman knows about only through hearsay — and that is Casanova. If the 20th century has produced a lover to match him, he is still anonymous."

Levinson, who has just edited Jacques Casanova's famous memoirs, is convinced that to compare any of today's international gigolos or millionaire playboys to the great Venetian is like comparing a painted rascal to a real one.

"History has been most unfair to Casanova," he said. "Many people think he was either a homosexual or an avowed one."

But the more we check his story the more we find he told the truth."

Levinson, who has compiled a list of 154 romantic affairs of Casanova, thinks it is unfair to write him off as a wolf in a mere lecher who preyed on defenseless women.

"Actually there have been few men in history more the victim of women," he said stoutly.

"He was a man eternally in love with love. When he swore undying love, he meant it — at the time. He could look across a room at a woman and fall instantly in love with her. He did have a low boiling point."

He would then abandon what ever project he was on and begin to court her. He would buy a house and hire servants and throw a big party."

Arkansas Almanac for 1958 on Sale

"All about Arkansas in one book" is the claim of the publishers of the 1958-59 edition of the Arkansas Almanac, The Encyclopedia of Arkansas.

The third edition of the book, which is published biennially by the Arkansas Almanac Company, Little Rock, contains 260 pages, 50 pages of which are maps and pictures of interesting points in the state.

This year for the first time the Almanac has been adopted as the official travel guide of the Arkansas Travel Council. As such it features points of interest, resources, industries and a picture story on Arkansas State Parks and their development program.

A wealth of statistics and useful information about the State is compactly presented. Lists of county and state officials, membership of boards and commissions, history of highlights, maps and write-ups of all the counties, hundreds of other items, even including "Change the name of Arkansas," that will answer almost any question about Arkansas, are all jammed in the Almanac pages. Old-time almanac information is also included, making the book a complete reference book for all those who would like to know about Arkansas.

Even in its enlarged and improved format, the price of the Arkansas Almanac remains at $1, and is available at your bookseller or newsstand.

Captain Went Down With His Ship

ALGERS (AP)—The captain of the Norwegian tanker Seistrad and two stewards were reported today to have been washed overboard after the ship split in two.

The husband and son of one of the women were among the 35 other crewmen rescued after the tanker broke up in a western Mediterranean storm Tuesday.

First Mate Erling Wennesland radioed the ship's owners in Oslo that the three missing persons went overboard as they tried to reach the bow from the bridge.

Wennesland is aboard the Italian freighter Rubicon, which picked up seven crewmen from the drifting boat. The Dutch freighter Blotag plucked the other 28 from the stern.

A multinational fleet continued the search for the missing three. Capt. Borge Rieger and stewardesses Borge Selvensen and Asia Amosson. Mrs. Amosson's husband, Anto, was safe aboard the Rubicon; her son, Nils Julius, was on the liner.

A French admiralty spokesman here held out little hope for the missing three.

Dulles Says U.S. Wants a Summit Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said today "We do want a summit meeting" with Russia and other nations.

But it would be a fatal disaster, he said, if such a session diverted free nations from needed security measures "without any comparable change in the Soviet bloc."

And it also would be a disaster, Dulles added, if Western world leaders were forced to break off a summit conference in an atmosphere of hostility because that could "intensify the cold war and make more likely that it would turn into a hot war."

Because of these considerations, Dulles said in a speech prepared for a National Press club luncheon, any top level East-West meeting must be carefully prepared for with good prospect of achieving results for peace.

He said that was the essence of President Eisenhower's message Sunday to Soviet Premier Bulganin. Then Dulles added:

"It is now for the Soviet rulers to make clear whether or not they want a 'summit' conference which will genuinely promote the cause of peace and justice in the world. We do."

Cities Hope to Overcome a PSC Ruling

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Four Arkansas cities hope they can invalidate a state Public Service Commission formula that would decide how much Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. pays in-city franchise taxes.

The four cities—Little Rock, Pine Bluff, El Dorado, and Fort Smith—yesterday appealed to Federal Circuit Court from the PSC's formula order.

Filed on behalf of all Arkansas municipalities served by Southwestern Bell, the appeal petitioned Circuit Judge Guy Ansley.

DeAnn Edges Sweet Home in RCI Contest

The DeAnn Rural Community Improvement group was judged first place county winners over the Sweet Home Rural Community Improvement group for 1957 by a very narrow margin. Since the two communities were so close each community will receive the blue awards certificate indicating the progress made in the communities.

Judging was based on (1) Community Organization, Planning and Development (2) Community effort to develop sound use of land, resources and income (3) Community effort to develop homes that are healthful and satisfying and (4) Community effort to develop better churches. The DeAnn RCI scored highest on the first two points while Sweet Home RCI scored highest on the last two points.

Judging was done in the DeAnn Community Wednesday morning, Jan. 15, with Irvin Burke taking the judges on a tour of the community. After the tour the judges met at the Community Center with members of the RCI group, where slides were shown of some of the improvements made and programs held throughout the year. Rev. Swift, pastor of the DeAnn Church spoke on the influence the RCI group had been to the churches.

Following the program the group served lunch for the judges, visitors and RCI members.

Leaving the DeAnn Community the judges went to the Sweet Home Community where E. E. Spens took the judges on a tour of the community. After the tour the group met at the Harold Ingram home where they told of future plans for the Sweet Home RCI. Coffee and cookies were served the group by Mrs. Ingram.

"The RCI program is conducted by the Arkansas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with the Arkansas Press Association, the Arkansas Power & Light Company and the Arkansas Council of Churches. County judging was done by B. N. Holt, Mrs. C. C. McNeil and Jack Love."

W. H. Home, Demonstration Agent Wade Benefield, Associate County Agent and Oliver L. Adams, County Agent, made the tour of the communities with the judges and RCI committees.

The DeAnn RCI will be competing for District awards during the week of February 3-7.

Businessman Arrested For Having Guns

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Sheriff Hollis Spencer said a businessman was arrested near here yesterday after federal Alcohol Tax-Unit agents found four machine guns in his home.

John Bassett, 30, owner of a supply company on S. Highway 71, about a half mile north of Fayetteville, was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner William B. Putnam on a charge of violating the National Firearms Act.

Bassett was released on $4,000 property bond.

The National Firearms Act prohibits possession of fully automatic machineguns and rifles or shotguns with barrels less than 16 inches long.

Spencer and two ATU agents said they found the 45 caliber machine guns and a .50 caliber machine gun and a .50 caliber rifle with a 14-inch barrel in Bassett's home adjacent to his store.

The sheriff said Bassett had offered to sell the four machine guns at $40 each to one of the ATU agents.

The machineguns seized would bring about $150 each from representatives of Cuban rebels, one ATU agent said.

He did not indicate, however, whether such weapons in Arkansas had been sold to the rebels or why ATU agents had been investigating Bassett.

Man Visiting In Waldron Killed

BOONEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The bullet-riddled body of a former Ohio school teacher was found beside a side road near here today, and police said they arrested another person for investigation in connection with the death.

The sheriff did not identify the person arrested.

Roach's body contained several bullet wounds, apparently from a .22 caliber pistol, Pennington said.

He said the body had been lying about 30 yards off state Highway 23 on a side road for several hours when a motorist saw it. The area is eight miles southwest of here.

Vandals Rip Church At Fort Smith

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—Vandals have smashed or toppled about 50 monuments in the Catholic and Jewish cemeteries near downtown Fort Smith, police said today.

Detectives Ward Stacey and Marvin Cole said the loss would amount to thousands of dollars.

The vandals struck Tuesday night, officers said, and also slashed two grave tents.

Some of the damaged monuments weighed 600 pounds.

The Catholic and Jewish cemeteries are adjoining.

Police said there was no apparent motive for the vandalism. No arrests have been made.

School Group Alarmed Over Science Plan

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A new emphasis on teaching science has brought concern to officials in Arkansas school districts which have big federal installations, because of the possible effect on a federal aid law.

A hearing will be held at Washington Monday by a House Education Subcommittee on whether the aid law, Public Law 874, is to be extended—and Arkansas Education Department officials and some school superintendents hope to get a chance to testify.

Public Law 874 provides maintenance and operating funds for school districts in areas where large federal installations place financial burdens on local school systems.

"The law is due to expire June 30, Arkansas educators fear it may be combined with one of the many 'crash' programs for teaching science and mathematics, or that its renewal may be delayed so long their budget plans will be affected."

W. H. Moore, head of the Education Department's School Plant Division, intends to be at the hearing. Others expected to go include school superintendents from Texarkana, Camden, Blytheville, Fort Smith, Little Rock, North Little Rock, and Dardanelle.

Arkansas Place Land In Bank

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas farmers obligated $39,800 acres of cotton land and 19,075 acres of rice land to the soil bank's 1958 acreage reserve program in the first two days of this week.

"The government will pay $7,791,057 for the cotton land and $1,203,456 for the rice land."

In announcing these statistics here yesterday, the state Agricultural Stabilization Committee said that the deadline for signing agreements to put crop lands into the acreage reserve is March 7. Opening date for signing was last Monday.

Desha County farmers put 6,997 acres into the reserve, largest number in the state. The 287 agreements will bring $617,491.

Prairie County topped the list in rice acreage obligated—2,401 acres. Prairie farmers signed 80 agreements for a total of $163,837. Lee County was next highest with 1,690 acres obligated, 60 agreements and $121,030 in payments due.

Quachita College was represented by five men at the Southwestern Baptist Bible Teachers' Association held recently at Dallas. Among those attending was Dr. John McClanahan of the First Baptist Church of Hope.

Suggests Easing of Production Restrictions

By OVID A. MARTIN.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today called for lower government price supports for major farm crops and dairy products, and an easing of production restrictions.

In a special message to Congress, Eisenhower laid out in 14 points what he termed a progress program and said it would let farmers benefit more from their own unparalleled ability to produce.

"The program held out the prospect too of eventual lower food costs for consumers."

Eisenhower told Congress that agriculture in recent years has been experiencing a veritable revolution in productivity.

"Farm production per man-hour has doubled since 1940," he said. "There has been more change in agriculture within the lifetime of men now living than in the previous 2,000 years."

Eisenhower said the rapid changes taking place in agriculture are largely the result of a major breakthrough in agricultural science and technology, constitute a revolution that cannot be reversed, and are continuing.

"It cannot be avoided and it need not be feared," he said. "In recognition of this basic fact, we must find ways of utilizing more completely the abundance that our farm people are now able to produce; we must find ways of further expanding markets for this increased production; not only among our own citizens but among people all over the world who need the food and clothing we produce in such abundance."

In outlining his recommendations, Eisenhower said it was essential that they be accepted this year to improve the status of rural people in greatest need, to aid agricultural adjustment, provide more freedom, expand markets, and, thereby, to help raise farm family income.

The proposals would require legislative action in some cases, administrative decisions in others and shifts in appropriations in others.

Frenchman Is Attraction at Boxoffice

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 15 — Jean Claude Lefebvre of France has wound up the first half of his first season of American basketball for Gonzaga University as a bigger item at the box office than in the box score.

While the 7-foot-3½ inch freshman has averaged only 8.1 points in 13 games, he has contributed mightily to Gonzaga athletics.

Gonzaga is averaging 1,000 more fans per game this year than last and at $1 a head you might figure Lefebvre has contributed some $13,000 to gross receipts here and away. There is no question but that the tall Gaul is responsible for the increase.

Jean's figures in the box score haven't been as impressive. He is grossly inexperienced—he didn't start playing the game until 1955—and at times this year the team looked better without him.

In other games he has been vital to the cause. In one game he didn't score a point, got only a free throw in another. He has trouble lifting his 280 pounds off the floor, has had problems with passes and needs coordination.

"I'd say his biggest trouble is that he doesn't have the instinct most American players do," said Bob Turner, Gonzaga's top scorer. "Before he makes a move he has to think it over."

Lefebvre seems to agree. He doesn't take a lot of shots when he has them, doesn't follow through on some he tries. He explained: "I have zee ball and I say, 'yes shoot—no, yes, no.' Zen it ces too late."

Enemy defenders have baited the ball away or tied him up by the time "yes" comes around again.

Martinez in Decision Over Turner

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—It will be Vince Martinez against Isaac Logart for the vacant welterweight championship — National Boxing Assn. version.

Martinez won the right last night for the fight to determine a successor to Carmen Basilio as welterweight king by outpointing Philadelphia's Gil Turner in a 12-round bout. Basilio gave up the title after winning the middleweight crown from Ray Robinson.

Martinez, of Patterson, N.J., received only a split decision but established a clear superiority over Turner with sharp punching, especially in the final three rounds.

Referee Pete Piantado scored Martinez the winner by a single point under the Pennsylvania five-point maximum system, 54-53. Judge Jimmy Mina voted for Martinez 56-54. Judge Nate Lopinson surprised the crowd of 7,120—it paid $37,989 — by calling a 55-55 draw. The Associated Press scored Martinez a handy winner, 54-48.

The NBA said last week the winner of the Martinez-Turner bout should not Logart, who earned a final berth in the welterweight elimination tournament by defeating Gaspar Ortega last month.

If and when Martinez and Logart meet, they still face the problem of nonrecognition in some arenas. The World Boxing Championship Committee, headed by Julius Hofland of the New York State Athletic Commission, has declared it will not recognize a 147-pound champion until Virgil Atkins of St. Louis and George Barnes of Australia are eliminated from the ring. for a review of the commission's order which now is in effect. Basically the appeal challenges PSC jurisdiction in the matter.

Little Rock City Atty. Joseph C. Kemp drew up the petition last week at a meeting with city attorneys of the three other cities. The PSC order directed that any tax formula set by a city in excess of that fixed by the formula should be passed on to Southwest Bell customers in that city.

Kemp said the appeal would not necessarily mean that immediate effects of the formula would be stayed.

Some Arkansas towns would get increases in franchise taxes under the formula but some would have to cut their levies.

Little Rock has been charging $75,000 annually in franchise taxes but the PSC schedule would reduce this to $54,000. Pine Bluff has been getting $12,000 and the schedule raises the levy to $13,350. Fort Smith would get $21,554 instead of $20,000, but El Dorado could charge only $3,294 instead of $10,500.

AP&L Tells or Research Program

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An Arkansas power official announced yesterday that his company and 14 other utilities have signed a $5,254,000 contract for a research program aimed at building atomic electric plant in the southwest.

R. E. Ritchie, president of Arkansas Power & Light Co., said here that the group of utilities—known as Southwest Atomic Energy Associates—negotiated the contract with the Atomic International Division of North American Aviation, Inc.

Atomies International has headquarters at Canoga Park, Calif. Southwest Atomic Energy Associates includes AP&L and electric companies in Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas.

The 4-year research program will deal with the possibility of producing electric power from a new kind of atomic machine.

The machine would be based on the advanced epithermal thorium reactor concept. In this process, thorium—a radioactive element—would be used as the material from which Uranium 232 was derived in a "breeding" operation. The fissionable uranium thus produced, plus some uranium originally placed in the reactor, would provide fuel which "burned" or fissioned to make usable heat for power.

New Trial Denied to Dave Beck

SEATTLE (AP)—Dave Beck, outgoing Teamsters Union president, was denied a new trial today on his grand larceny conviction. Superior Judge George R. Revell rejected defense motions for a new trial, based principally on grounds of jury misconduct and prejudice by the jury foreman, Charles Hickling.

The judge indicated he would sentence Beck about February 20 a few days after he sentences Beck's son, Dave Jr., also on grand larceny.

The Becks were convicted last month in separate jury trials of embezzling $6,550 from the sale of three union-owned Cadillacs. The younger Beck's motion for a new trial was denied by the judge last week.

Beck declared Atkins the champion. Turner weighed 145½, Martinez 147.

A&M Acts to Wipe Out All Dissension

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., (AP)—Officials of Texas A&M embroiled in dissension over selection of a football coach, try today to sift some order into their semiregularly endless hunt.

With criticism coming from all sides, Dr. Chris Groneman, chairman of the Faculty Athletic Committee, said the group would try to appraise the situation.

Even Gov. Price Daniel has gotten into the act, calling for a complete report on the much-criticized search for a successor to Paul Bryant, who quit Jan. 1 to become head coach at Alabama.

W. T. Doherty of Houston, chairman of the college Board of Directors, sacked the board's Athletic Committee yesterday.

"This simply is a move which I believe to be necessary to clear up a confused situation which is damaging to the A&M College of Texas," Doherty said.

Earlier, alumnus Gene Howard, 1937 president of the Houston A&M Club, called on four of the five members of the Athletic Committee to resign from the Board of Directors. He accused them of fumbling the recruiting.

Casanova was no matinee idol in looks. He was tall, dark, strong, hawk-eyed, hawk-nosed.

"He was a man of all-around talent, the king of opportunists," said Levinson. "He was a self-made aristocrat. DOROTHY DIX

Cure Your Unhappiness By Making Others Happy

Dear Dorothy Dix: How can I change a bad disposition? I need to be a pleasant and amiable person but for the last several years I've been growing mean, stingy, critical and generally obnoxious. I have absolutely no reason for being so. My husband is a fine, generous, faithful man, my two children are obedient, loving and healthy, but I'm afraid things will change if I don't. Before my marriage I had a fine job with a publishing outfit. Sometimes I long for the activity of the business world, but my husband won't hear of me returning to it. Could frustration be at the bottom of my trouble? Please help me.

MRS. L. B.
Dear Mrs. L. B.: You're a most intelligent woman, judging from your letter. You've made a good diagnosis of yourself, and only you can prescribe the cure. Face a few bitter facts about yourself, then set about effecting a reform. This is strictly a do-it-yourself project. No outsider can wave a magic wand, concoct a secret potion or otherwise perform a miracle and change your nature. Since you once were amiable, you can be again. It's up to you. Apparently you are a bit bored with husband, home and children. Can't you be realistic enough to know that distance has given the business world a glamour in your eyes that it never possessed in actuality? If it had been so fascinating you never would have married and left it.

Stop thinking so much about whether or not you are happy. Concentrate on making those around you happy and the improvement will come.

Hope, Helen Cheatham and baby boy, McNab.

Memorial Admitted: J. T. Smead, Ozark, Beulah Torrence, Hope; Mary Frances Field, Hope; Edith Bissick, Hope; Terry Don Teague, Hope; Jerry Garrett, Hope; Mrs. Bobbie Conner, Dallas.

Discharged: Lige Bearden, Hope; Mrs. Maggie Churchwell, Hope.

ment in their dispositions will rub off on you. Overcome your negativity by giving. Make the supreme effort to part with a few bucks and see the change in yourself.

God has bestowed upon you health, love, a fine husband and children. Show your appreciation by being content.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Although I'm only 18 I look a lot older. I like two boys, and can't make up my mind which to date. Tom and I go steady, though he's serious and I'm not. I've only known Joe two weeks, but I've given very fond of him. I tried to give Tom a ring back several times but he refused to take it, now will he believe that I don't feel ready for steady dating. How can I make him take his ring back without hurting his feelings?

Dear Alcyce: You have already tried diplomacy. Tom's asking for hurt feelings, so you're not responsible if he gets what he wants. Insist on returning the ring. If he won't take it, mail it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My steady seems to have undergone a cooling process. In the last three weeks he has called only twice, and has been to see me once. He's moving clear across the continent in a few weeks. Should I ask him to write?

Dear Evie: When he comes to say good-bye, it would be no more than polite to ask him to drop you a line and let you know how he likes his new home. Don't pin any hopes on him, though. Long distance friendship, for the young, is very difficult to continue. Perhaps he realizes this and has been easing off, hoping you wouldn't miss him too much. This is an adjustment you simply must make.

They included:
1. Change the 14-billion-dollar annual soil bank program by abandoning next year the costlier short-term average reserve and strengthening the longer-term conservation reserve. The proposed 450 million dollars for payments to farmers for retiring cropland of any kind for long periods and putting it to grass, trees or other noncrop uses.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration is ready to make its third attempt to reduce federal subsidies to farmers for water conservation practices.

For years, Congress has been providing about 225 million dollars annually for such subsidies. They are authorized under the agricultural conservation program which was set up in 1936 after the U. S. Supreme Court nullified the first Agricultural Adjustment Act. Originally 500 million dollars a year was authorized.

The administration wants the fund cut to 125 million, effective with the 1959 crop years. Early in his tenure, President Eisenhower asked Congress to make the same size reduction. But Congress declined to do so. On another occasion, Congress did reduce the amount to 100 million, but this was not the size cut the administration sought.

The administration wants to eliminate payments for farming practices which are a part of the usual and required annual farming methods or which return immediate financial benefits to the farmer. The application of lime and some types of fertilizer now draw payments. These payments would be dropped.

Secretary Benson says these annual, normal practices are a responsibility of the farmer. He would limit government help to the more permanent soil and water conservation practices needed to maintain an adequate agricultural resource base. In this class are building of dams, terraces, drainage ditches and the like.

Tanker Splits, Most of Crew Is Rescued

GEOVA, Italy (AP)—The Norwegian tanker Seistrand broke in two in a raging Mediterranean storm today and at least 28 of the 38-man crew were rescued.

The Dutch freighter Binklang messaged she had rescued the 28. The captain, A. C. W. Latour, told his home office in Amsterdam 10 crewmen were missing from the 9,974-ton Norwegian ship, and that a search was continuing.

The scene of the rescue was about 100 miles east of Majorca, largest island in the Balearic group off the east coast of Spain. A French air force plane flying over the area said the severed bow of the Seistrand had sunk but the stern section remained afloat. The plane could not tell whether any were left aboard the stern. The 2,774-ton Binklang, however, apparently had succeeded in removing the men from the stern. In his first message to Amsterdam, Latour said he had rescued 15 sailors and was trying to take off those still on the stern.

About one-half of the troops that fought in the Battle of Bunker Hill were from New Hampshire.

The conservation program has been one of the most popular of the federal farm-aid programs with congressmen. It has had strong support from both Republicans and Democrats.

Ike Hopeful Little Rock to Handle Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he hopes Little Rock officials soon will be in a position to notify him that they are able to maintain order there in connection with integration.

The President made the comment during this morning press conference.

He had been asked what he regards as the next step in the Little Rock situation.

Federal troops are still enforcing order at Little Rock's Central High School where they were ordered in September.

Asked whether he is now awaiting word from Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus the President replied with a crisp "no."

The President said he was thinking more about hearing from the local Little Rock authorities as to whether order can be maintained without the presence of the federalized National Guard troops.

In Little Rock, Mayor Werner Knoop said he saw little change today from the situation that existed in September and that he had not been contacted by Washington.

Lace Panties Steal Honors in New Film

"To a pair of black lace panties went the honor of the last close-up before the finish of M-G-M's 'Don't Go Near the Water'."

The unmentionables, much mentioned throughout the all-star comedy, based on William Brinkley's best-seller novel, were photographed from a bird's eye view as they flew from the supposed mast of a U. S. Navy cruiser. Long shots had been filmed previously aboard the cruiser, Rochester, in San Pedro Harbor, but with no means aboard the ship for "dolly-ing" in for a near view. Director Charles Walters scheduled the shot on a studio stage to herald the end of the picture.

Starring in "Don't Go Near the Water," an Avon Production for M-G-M, produced by Lawrence Weingarten, are Glenn Ford, Gloria Scott, Earl Holliman, Anne Francis, Keenan Wynn, Eva Gabor, Fred Clark, Russ Tamblyn, Jeff Richards and Mickey Shaghenessy, Hollywood's comedy find of the year. Starts Sunday at the Saenger.

Connie Ashland awakened to a stir of movement, to the crackle of open flames, and to the good scent of fat pinewood smoke.

Just straightening up after starting a fire on the hearth, was Kitty Dutra. She looked across at Connie and spoke pleasantly.

"Sorry if I woke you. I tried to be quiet. But I had to get this fire going, else you'd freeze."

A gust of warmth reached Connie and she pushed aside the blankets and moved swiftly closer to the welcome of the flames. She yawned and let her nightgown slip from her, stepping from its crumpled folds. The firelight played rosy over her slim, supple beauty and Kitty Dutra, eying her, spoke quietly.

"My dear, you possess complete loveliness. See that you nestow it only on a man thoroughly worthy."

Before Connie, startled, could answer, Kitty Dutra slipped from the room.

Just as she reached the kitchen Ward Sebastian and Lieut. Philip Ashland came in.

Sebastian introduced the young officer to Mrs. Gayle and Kitty Dutra, then turned to Connie.

"And good morning to you, Miss Ashland. You're being well cared for?"

She looked at him with clear directness. "Much better than I deserve," she said simply. "I'm deeply ashamed of myself. Not until a moment ago did I remember your arm."

"No slightest reason why you should," he declared. "It's about as well I've practically forgotten about it myself. Besides, I right now the main concern is you. I'll let Phil explain."

Wondering, Connie turned to her brother. "What is it, Phil?"

"Why," said Phil, "it appears you'll be staying right here at this ranch for some time."

Connie was startled. "I don't understand. I thought Fort Klamath—"

"That could be months away, Connie. Uncle Ross doesn't know when he'll be back there. If at all. And the latest headquarters order is that all troops in this immediate area will be held here until this Modoc affair is settled."

"So, I won't be going on to Klamath, either. Certainly you can't go there alone. Mr. Sebastian, being very generous, offers you the hospitality of his ranch. It would be much the simplest answer."

Connie shook her head quickly and with emphasis.

"We can't consider it, Phil. It would be a terrible imposition. I'll go on to Fort Klamath some way and make the best of it. But I absolutely refuse to—"

"You don't understand," Sebastian argued. "This is a lonely land, where company is a rare luxury, and therefore valued highly. Besides, by agreeing to stay, you'll lift a lot of concern from the minds of your brother and your uncle."

She studied him intently, searching for the slightest hint of insincerity and finding none. Considering his last words, her instinctive opposition began to crumble.

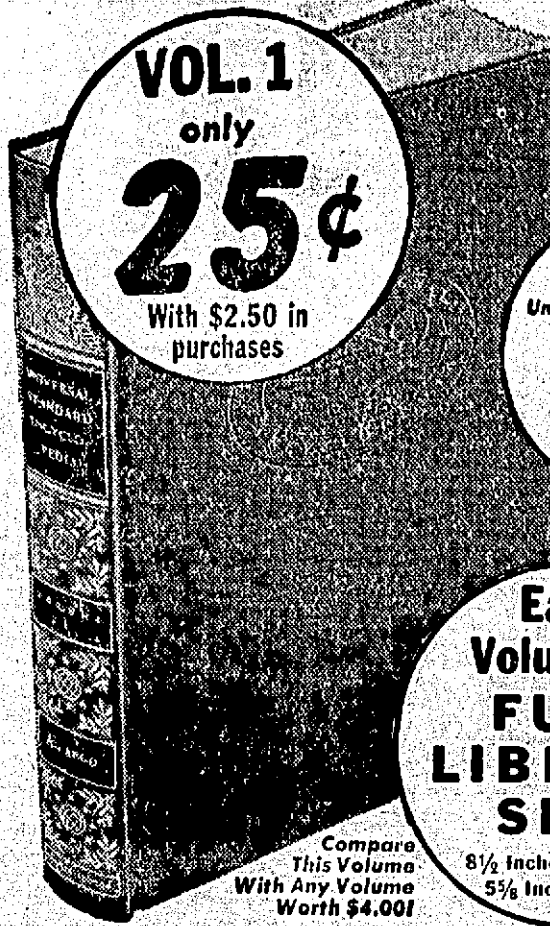

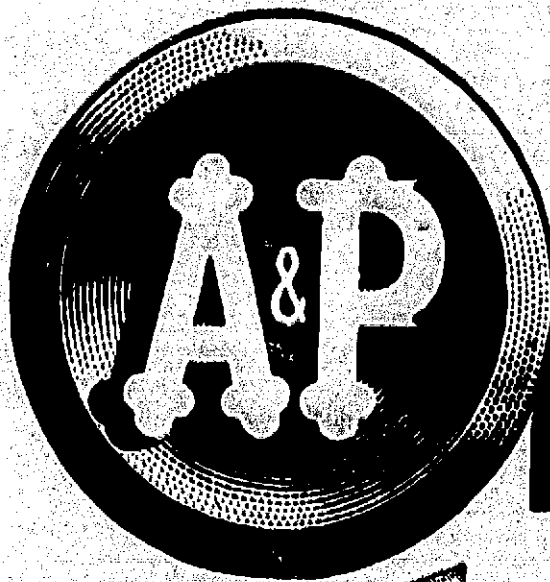

"You make it difficult for me to refuse," she admitted.

"Then don't think of it. We'll call the matter settled. If you've extra luggage in Yreka, Sam Lester and I will bring it through on our next trip."

"There's a trunk. At the Siskiyou House. It was to come up to Fort Klamath later by Army transport. It isn't a very large trunk."

"You'll have it," Sebastian promised.
